How to choose a light for a terrace?

You can choose anything from ceilings lights in a more urban and sober style to lights with a decorative function. Organic materials such as wicker and raffia are on-trend right now, although you should base your choice of this lighting on the decorative style of your terrace.

How to decorate a terrace?

Decorative lighting: this creates an atmosphere and enhances the decoration of your terrace. From strategically placed decorative lamps to strings of lights, there are many options to get the most out of your terrace. You can light up a special corner of your terrace, perhaps where you have a prominent decorative element or plant.

Why should you choose LED lighting for your Terrace?

LED lighting: their low consumption makes them less expensive, and this technology offers lots of decorative possibilities. The lighting on your terrace will be exposed to the elements, so the lights you choose must meet all safety requirements, as we have mentioned.

How do I know if lights are suitable for my terrace?

To check whether lights are suitable for your terrace, make sure they have a suitable IP code (Ingress Protection Code). IP is responsible for classifying light fittings according to the protection of their mechanical housings and electrical cabinets against intrusion, dust, accidental contact and water.

Why do we not have a terrace when the sun goes down?

Terraces are a great place for lots of things: relaxing in the sun, games, breakfast, an aperitif at sunset, playing with the kids and even working from home while keeping nice and cool. But we often forget about our private terraces when the sun goes down. There is one reason for this in particular: a lack of lighting.

Why do you need a private terrace?

A new summer is now fully here, bringing with it the desire to enjoy being outdoors. Terraces are a great place for lots of things: relaxing in the sun, games, breakfast, an aperitif at sunset, playing with the kids and even working from home while keeping nice and cool. But we often forget about our private terraces when the sun goes down.
